In May, our focus will be on ensuring that ALL children regardless of an ability to pay will have a safe, fun, and educational summer! As a part of this, there will be multiple presentations about little known but phenomenal resources for children right here in the Kansas City Metro area. Additionally, the NWS or National Weather Service will be giving life-saving information about how to stay safe in severe weather season. This is especially important for many of the people that we are privileged to serve because so many of them are experiencing multiple stressors and preparedness may not be on the forefront of their thinking. This presentation will give you practical but very effective ways to keep everyone safe! Also on this day will be information about programs to keep utilities connected for struggling people during the often dangerous summer heat. Further information about how we can help children go to camps and other activities while taking the financial burden off of families will be presented. Hope to see you there!
